Supplemental Digital Appendix 1
Initial Interview Guide\textsuperscript{a}

Preamble:
Thank you for agreeing to participate in this study. The purpose of this study is to understand how medical students’ attitudes about global health are shaped by interactions with medical students from low-resource countries. Your privacy will always be respected. Please feel free to answer the questions in any way you please.

1. Tell me about your involvement in the Haitian student program.

2. How do you feel about the program?

3. How was your interaction with the Haitian students?

4. What effects did this have on you?

5. How does it compare to other experiences in global health that you’ve had?

6. What role do you foresee global health playing in your future career?

7. Do you have any questions or concerns?

8. Do you have any comments with regards to this study?

9. In your opinion, how should global health initiatives be organized? What should be prioritized?

\textsuperscript{a}For an exploratory and critical constructivist study of how host (Canadian) medical students learn from visiting foreign (Haitian) medical students in bidirectional exchange global health education initiatives, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, March–May 2017. The interview guide was modified as themes were identified in interviews. For example, when the theme of negotiation of power differentials between Haitian and Canadian students was recognized in the first few interviews, subsequent students were asked, “Some students mentioned that they recognized some kind of difference in power between the McGill and Haitian students. Can you comment on that?”
